

The background of the slide is a photograph of several white, fluffy seed heads, likely from a dandelion or similar plant, growing on tall green grass. The seed heads are in various stages of maturity, some fully open and others still budding. The lighting is bright, creating a high-contrast image with deep shadows and bright highlights on the grass and seed heads.

Heritage and Identity in Inaliq and Kijigien

Carol Zane Jolles Anthropology Department
University of Washington
Seattle, Washington

Little Diomed Island

Wales

Inaliq/Little Diomedede Island

Diomedede

↓ School

← Helipad

Kinjiigen/Wales

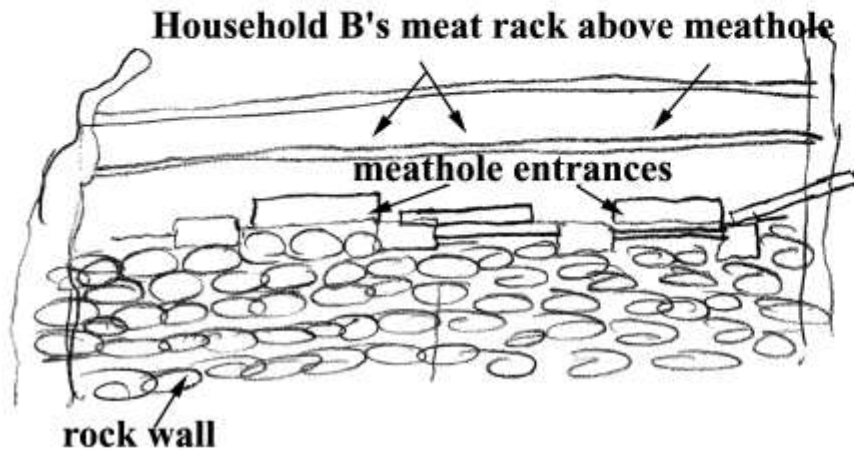

[illegible]

Covered uuas or meat holes along the Diomedede walkway

Looking Down Into Meathole Through "Entrance"

Side-view of Meathole (exterior)

Side-view of Meathole (interior)

HOUSEHOLD B's MEATHOLE

Sketch by "Bob"

August 9, 1999

Pat Omiak identifies one of two former boat building areas above Inaliq

Wales Elder Pete Sereadlook, left, with Carol Jolles & Herbert Anungazuk

Wales Elder Faye Ongtawasruk with her ulu collection

Wales student interns identify family residences for the 2004 village map

Elder Arthur Ahkinga, at the village “standing place” in Diomede

Elder Patrick
Omiak teaching
Inupiaq songs on Halloween

Verifying Map Locations: Village Research Teams

- ❖ Wales Elders: Pete Sereadlook, Faye Ongtowasruk
- ❖ Wales Assistant: Lena Sereadlook
- ❖ Diomedede Elders: Patrick Omiak
Arthur Ahkinga
- ❖ Diomedede Assistant: Frances
Ozenna

Struggling to clear an ice runway in front of Diomedede

The End